Dear Stephen Adolphus,

My name is Don Louis, an accountant affiliated with an investment firm in Canada/Europe. I received your contact information through a consumer database when I was in your country a month ago. While searching for the same surname to my late client, an investor who sadly died while on a business trip in Europe. He was a United States citizen also a Canadian resident for over a period of 10 years. Mr. James Adolphus, marital status was single before his sudden passing.

I must first apologize for this unsolicited mail to you. I understand that this is certainly not a conventional way of approaching to create a relationship of trust but because of the circumstances and urgency surrounding this claim I am left with no other option. As the accountant to the late Mr. Adolphus, our investment firm has mandated me to present a member of his family (heir/inheritor) or his beneficiary to make claims of his inheritance.

My client had an unclaimed life insurance masterpiece fixed deposits of $7M USD here at our investment firm. The invested funds is still yet to be paid, the details of the investment have been kept private due to the nature of the agreement between the investor and our investment firm. I have the entire Investment portfolio details, as I managed the investment for the deceased. After an extensive search for a direct family member of my late client, which came to no avail. I have been given the option to find a relative to claim these funds or else the account will be confiscated and taken to the Canadian Bureau of unclaimed funds.

I'm requesting your partnership, so I may present you to our investment firm as the next of kin. This will permit your entitlement of the investment that is now due for payout. This can only be released or paid to the Next of Kin/Heir to the estate because you share the same surname and nationality with my diseased client.

Please respond to this email with your contact information name, address, contact number phone along with your email and/or fax to my email donlouis1@consultant.com. For more details and the procedures of the settlement, please ensure that you have a fax machine or email address in order to process your settlement.

Do not mail any document for security purposes. All documents must be sent by fax or email. It is important to keep this transaction highly confidential, given the circumstances, I am currently working with our investment firm. Any disclosed information could compromise the settlement which can result in double claim and/or in termination. This transaction will be processed legally and protect you from any infraction of the law.

Regards,

Don Louis
