Re: Unilone Trade Company

I had PayPal send me the proof, which was a tracking number for a package through the USPS. So, it's mail fraud, too. Have you received anything weird in the mail lately? I did .. it was a tiny toy that had no business being in my mailbox. It seemed very weird. And random. I would never have suspected this was what was sent to me instead of a lamp. Maybe I'm an idiot, but it never crossed my mind that a tiny wooden doll was supposed to be my monkey lamp that was something like 2-feet tall! I was able to send a photo of the doll I received as well as a picture of what I was supposed to receive. PayPal then opened an investigation. But now they are saying I have to send the #####ing thing back to China, which will cost a fortune. Facebook should be penalized for allowing these trashy scams. We feel like fools. PayPal doesn't give a crap. But in my mind, this is mail fraud and the USPS is aiding and abetting these scammers by delivering this crap to our doors.

I wo t ever order through Facebook market place or Instagram either. I have learned the hard way and the frustration I experienced is not worth the bother. PayPal are not taking ownership with this company and that is the hardest pill to swallow.
