

From: info@happytailslogistics.org
Subject: Delivery Update
Date: Jan 28, 2024 at 7:26:54 AM
To: anauer87@gmail.com

Dear Client

This is to inform you that Your puppy is in Transit point and delivery was set to be this morning. Our vets had to examine the general health situation of the puppy and we discovered that the puppy had certain diseases. We have doubts if the shipper was aware of the health situation of the puppy before getting her registered.

We discovered that the puppy suffering from the following

1) Kennel Cough, Bacterial infection or canine parainfluenza viruses, both of which are airborne, cause kennel cough in dogs — also known as infectious tracheobronchitis. "The disease name is a misnomer," says Dr. Dobies, "because animals that aren't in kennels can —and do — contract it." Puppies can be vaccinated against kennel cough starting at six to eight weeks, and then every six to 12 months after that, though the vaccine doesn't necessarily protect against the disease, but does lead to milder symptoms.

2) Flea-borne diseases (Flea allergy dermatitis is perhaps the most common disease that affects dogs; it is an allergic reaction to the saliva of the flea that results in extreme itchiness, swelling, and respiratory distress).

3) Food allergies or intolerance? (Food allergies or food intolerance are caused by a reaction to a particular ingredient. Sometimes referred to as an 'adverse reaction to food,' it is defined as an abnormal response to a food or food additive. There are two classes of adverse reactions: those in which the immune system is involved (generally called food allergies); and those that occur without an immune component (generally called food intolerances).

We have commenced with treatment already and your puppy will be fine and perfect to be delivered to your address today by 7pm and it will be coming along with it Medications which you shall followup the treatment as prescribed.

THE OWNERSHIP DOCUMENTS OF THE PUPPY STILL CARRIES THE NAME OF THE PREVIOUS OWNER AND WE HAVE TO CHANGE TO YOUR NAME AS THE NEW AND LEGAL OWNER OF THE PUPPY.

N/B YOU WILL BE GETTING YOUR TOTAL REFUNDS TODAY UPON DELIVERY OF YOUR PUPPY.

Thanks